

Providing hope and emotional support to women fighting cancer - one Compassion Bag at a time.

Compassion That Compels™

Hope is a powerful concept. For women fighting cancer, it's everything. From her first doctor's appointment to the final treatment, hope is what she clings to. At Compassion That Compels™, we give hope to women facing the battle against cancer by providing comfort and emotional support. We'd love for you to join us in our efforts!

Compassion That Compels™ starts with providing beautiful custom bags filled with comfort items for women going through treatment. Compassion Bags contain a soft blanket and calming peppermint tea, a BPA-free travel mug, medical notebook, dream journal and other inspiring and practical items.

The smile on a woman's face as a Compassion Bag is placed into her arms is what fuels our passion, knowing that for even a moment, we brightened her journey. The bags are delivered by a Compassion That Compels™ volunteer, providing a touchpoint that becomes the beginning of a relationship of support, hope and compassion between the women with cancer and our organization.
